

Women Inclusion in Repair Culture Training Application Form

Hello! I'm Edina, part of the #ASKnet (Access to Skills and Knowledge network) experts team in Rhino Camp Refugee Settlement. We are interested in creating a training on Women's Inclusion in Repair Culture. This is about bringing women together who may be interested in developing skills to help others in the community fix, mend or repair everyday things around them. An introductory workshop will take place on two days early next week. This short survey serves as an application form to better understand your aspirations and details about what motivates you to take part in the training - and what you would like to see come out of the training. As an interested trainee/participant we encourage you to fill in all the fields as best as you can, with as much detail about yourself as possible. Information collected here is confidential and only shared with the workshop team to determine how best to prepare the training sessions - and to make it as useful and interesting as possible for you!
